Innovative Technology for Labor Challenges

Some sobering facts about warehouse labor turnover

Warehouse worker turnover is 37 percent annually... compared to 3.6 percent across other industries.

The cost of replacing a warehouse worker can equate to 25 percent of a worker's annual salary.

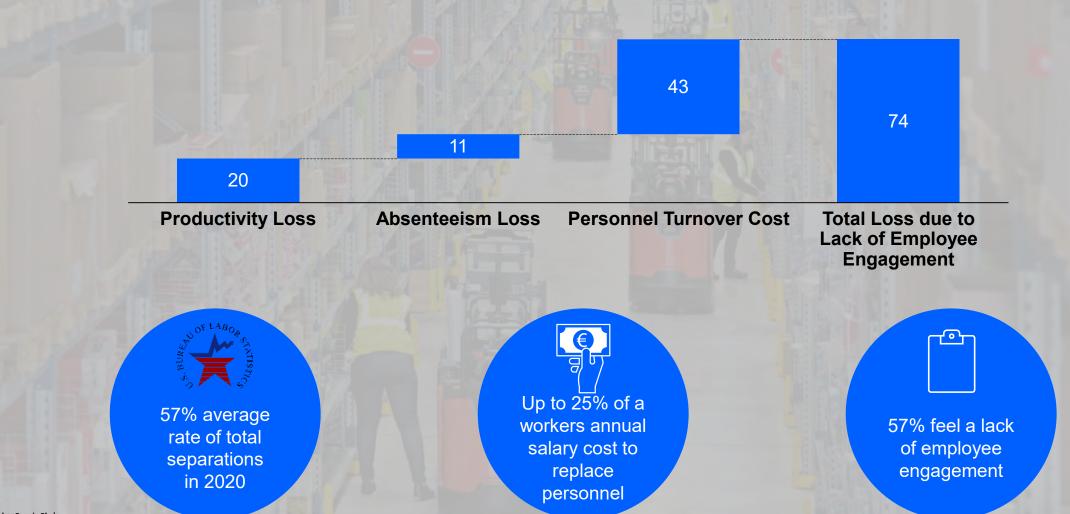

Aside from seeking higher pay elsewhere, common reasons for departure include:

- Job is too demanding
- Injury / fear of injury
- Boredom / repetition
- Lack of clear career path
- Poor organizational culture / fit

74 bn EUR are lost annually due to disengaged manual workers

Next Supply Chain Master Class

Consumer shopping behavior has permanently changed, the trend to online shopping accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. On June 8, join Simon Shore to learn how simulation can help businesses plan for more efficient fulfillment of ecommerce and omnichannel orders, whether in new or existing warehouses.
